

Dr. Tamara B. Dawli

Plastic & Reconstructive Surgeon

Specializing in Facial and Body Cosmetic Surgery

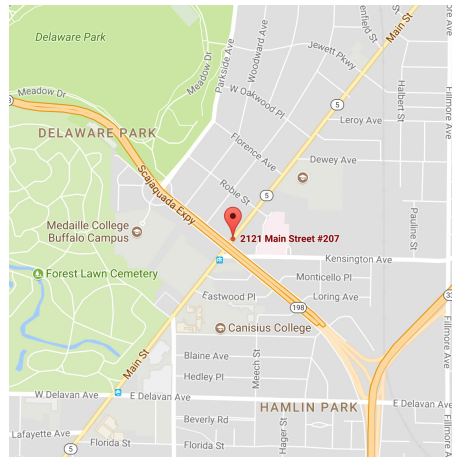

- Ivy League-trained in Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at the prestigious Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center
- Manhattan-based, Aesthetic (Cosmetic) Surgery Fellowship
- Trained with New York City's elite cosmetic surgeons
- Founder of Buffalo Plastic Surgery

Dr. Tamara Dawli is a New York City, Ivy League-trained Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeon who returns to the Western New York area to share her exceptional training and experience. As a Buffalo native, it is with great excitement that Dr. Dawli returns home to combine her modern artistry and world-class training to launch Buffalo Plastic Surgery.

Dr. Dawli completed a Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery residency at the prestigious and highly selective Dartmouth-Hitchcock Medical Center. Following her residency training, she moved to the renowned New York Eye and Ear Infirmary of Mount Sinai in Manhattan. While in New York City, Dr. Dawli completed an internationally respected fellowship in Aesthetic (Cosmetic) Surgery, which only a small group of plastic surgeons in the world have completed. During fellowship, she focused exclusively on cosmetic surgical procedures along with non-surgical cosmetic techniques. Dr. Dawli is committed to treating each patient with the safest and most up-to-date techniques in order to meet her patient's goals and create beautiful, natural results.

Buffalo Plastic Surgery was founded with the goal of providing professional, personalized, and modern plastic and reconstructive surgery for men and women. We are a patient-focused plastic surgery practice providing the highest standard of care within a private office.

LIFE AFTER WEIGHT LOSS

Exploring Plastic Surgery Options

Bariatric weight loss surgeries dramatically improve one's health and function. These life changing surgeries not only help you feel better, but they can also allow you to be more active and look better too. However, often times a reminder of significant weight loss is left behind in the form of sagging skin around the face, neck, breasts, arms, abdomen, buttocks, and thighs. Body contouring surgery at Buffalo Plastic Surgery can help you reveal the figure you desire and have worked so hard to achieve.

Q & A

Q: What Does Post-Bariatric Plastic Surgery Involve?

A: No two surgeries are ever the same, so your surgical plan will be unique and based on your desired outcomes. Dr. Dawli of Buffalo Plastic Surgery can recommend a combination of different procedures to achieve your optimal body shape. For example, your surgical plan may include a neck lift, breast lift, liposuction, tummy tuck, or body lift.

Q: Who is a Candidate for Post-Bariatric Surgery?

A: Post-bariatric surgery is ideal for patients who have excess skin and tissue after undergoing bariatric surgery. Your weight should be stable for over a year, and you should not have any plans for future weight loss. It is also important that your nutrition is optimized and that you have remained committed to your vitamins, supplements, and diet regimen. There may be some other important factors to consider before planning your plastic surgery, and Dr. Dawli will discuss those at your comprehensive consultation.

Q: What Should I Expect from Post-Bariatric Surgery?

A: Before any surgical treatments you will meet with Dr. Dawli to ensure all of your questions are answered and that your expectations for the surgery are realistic. You will also be able to view before and after pictures to see what you may be able to expect. The location of your scars will be discussed along with the various techniques available to target your specific concerns.
